BAKER TO URGE LEAGUE PLANK

Will Have Assistance of Cox and Judge Clark.

THREE FOREMOST ADVOCATES

Former War Secretary Slated to Be Ohio Member of the Democratic Convention's Resolutions Committee Which Will Draft the Platform. Baker a Dark Horse in Race for Democratic Nomination.

New York, June 20.—Governor Al Smith of New York denied knowledge of any peace pact between himself and William Randolph Hearst.

It was reported that Mayor Hylan has been acting in role of mediator between the governor and publisher. George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic leader, is said to heartily favor a Smith-Hearst armistice. Brennan, who is behind Smith for the Democratic nomination, also is friendly politically to Hearst, who has supported the city and county tickets in Chicago.

Senator Copeland of New York, a strong "dark horse" in the presidential nomination race, and who is known to be on friendly terms with Mr. Hearst, has issued a statement regarding strong pro-Smith sentiment he has found in New England.

A keen contest for the incorporation of a league of nations plank in the Democratic platform is forecast here. Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, will lead the fight. It is said. Baker, John H. Clark, former supreme court justice, and James M. Cox, former Ohio governor and Democratic presidential nominee of 1920, are the three foremost league of nations advocates in American politics.

It is to make this league of nations fight that Baker has been so eager to have himself picked as the Ohio member of the convention's resolution committee, which functions as the platform drafting body. Baker virtually is assured of this place.

Baker occupies the unique position of having been picked to place in nomination the name of another strong league of nations proponent for the presidency, Cox.

After the first ballot for the Democratic presidential nomination, when voting alignments are clear and the Smith-McAdoo fight starts in earnest, it will be interesting to watch the course of the Ohio vote. Ohio probably will continue voting for Cox long after Cox's chances, now slim, have disappeared altogether. The purpose will be to keep the Ohio vote from either McAdoo or Smith. In the course of this deadlock a Baker boom, under the skillful leadership of National Committeeman George White and Ed Moore, Cox's 1920 manager, might start a stampede toward the Cleveland man.

According to program, the Ohio delegation will first fight to nominate former Governor James M. Cox. When it is found impossible to nominate him, the delegation will cast a complimentary vote for former Governor James E. Campbell and then swing its support to Governor Al Smith of New York, according to leaders. Failing with Smith, the delegates are expected to place Baker's name in nomination.

RUM RUNNING DOOMED

Will Be Made Extremely Hazardous by Federal Officials' Plans.

Washington, June 20.—Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, told the senate Daugherty committee that, although a flood of liquor is pouring into the country from 60 bootleg ships lying off the Atlantic coast, rum defense measures now being planned will eventually "run the price of liquor up so high that few can buy it." The co-ordination of the coast guard and the customs service will make rum running so hazardous that liquor will become so scarce that high prices will kill off the trade, she predicted. The 12-mile treaties make enforcement difficult, because of the task of proving to the satisfaction of courts that seizures are made within "an hour's sailing" off shore of the seized vessels, she said.

American Army Aviators in Siam. Bangkok, Siam, June 20.—American army aviators, engaged in a fight around the world, arrived here from Saigon, French Indo-China. They made one stop on the way.

President Coolidge pushed a button sending an electric flash to Salt Lake City as a signal for opening of travel through Yellowstone national park.

TO SUCCEED W. NAAMAKER

Three Attorneys Under Consideration by Governor Donahay.

Columbus, June 20.—Three men are under consideration by Governor Donahay for appointment to the supreme court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Associate Justice R. M. Wanamaker. These three are: W. E. Young of Akron, law partner of Judge Wanamaker; Common Pleas Judge Stanley Matthews of Cincinnati, candidate for supreme court in 1922; and Judge George B. Okey, veteran Columbus attorney. E. L. Bodey of Urtana, candidate for supreme court in 1922, also has been recommended, but the first three named are understood to have the "inside track."

The governor will not appoint any one of the four Democrats now seeking nomination and election to the court, on the theory that to do so would be unfair to the others.

Dawes Invited to Speak

Columbus, June 20.—Charles Dawes, Republican nominee for vice president, may deliver his second political address since his nomination before the state Republican convention, which meets here next Tuesday and Wednesday. Republican officials in charge of the convention have communicated with Dawes to see if his engagements will permit his coming here. Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati will deliver the keynote address when the convention opens.

KLAN ISSUE MAY BOB UP

Illinois Leader Would Denounce the Organization.

McADOO AGAINST THE FIELD

Voting for Democratic Standard Bearer May Surpass the Endurance Test of 1920 When It Required 44 Ballots to Nominate Cox—Claims Made at the Rival Camps Now Established in New York.

New York, June 20.—The klan issue is almost certain to bob up in the Democratic national convention next week.

George Brennan, Illinois Democratic leader, announced that he favors a plank in the platform mentioning the Ku Klux Klan by name and denouncing it and its principles. This might be construed as a double-edged stroke, directed on the one hand against William G. McAdoo, alleged frequently to be profiting by klan support, and indicating on the other hand that possibly Brennan might ultimately take kindly to the candidacy of Senator Underwood of Alabama, who makes the klan one of his major issues.

Brennan, who is working for the nomination of Governor Al Smith of New York, said there would be no early selection of the Democratic candidate, and intimated the voting might surpass the endurance tests of 1920, when it required 44 ballots to nominate James M. Cox, and the record set in 1912 when Woodrow Wilson was nominated on the forty-sixth ballot. Wilson trailed Champ Clark through the earlier balloting, even as Smith is expected to trail McAdoo at the outset here.

Leaders say the strategy of anti-McAdoo forces at the outset will be to "get rid of McAdoo first." Then Smith will be given his big chance, and, if he fails of nomination, as many of the leaders believe, the time will have arrived to agree in the rival camps upon a compromise.

McAdoo called his strategists into conference to map out a short, sharp campaign to effect his nomination in the Democratic national convention on or before the tenth ballot. Those called were Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Tom Love of Texas, J. Bruce Kramer and Homer S. Cummings, formerly chairman of the Democratic national committee.

At the same time the opposition was preparing to prolong the struggle in the hope of breaking down the strength and confidence of the former treasury chief, pushing him out of the running.

Judge Rockwell, campaign manager for McAdoo, says the latter's strength may reach its peak as early as the fifth ballot, and that McAdoo will surely go over by the tenth.

Governor Smith declared he would not accept the Democratic vice presidential nomination. Told that there had been some talk of his nomination for the lesser candidacy, the governor said: "I will not be a second choice. I won't even acknowledge the existence of a second choice."

THREAT MADE

Chicago Millionaire Receives Letter From Alleged Kidnaper.

Chicago, June 20.—Homes of wealthy residents on Ellis avenue, on the South Side, are being guarded following receipt of a ransom letter by Irvin H. Hartman, millionaire furniture dealer, threatening to kidnap Irvin, Jr., 10 years old, unless $100,000 is paid. The Hartman home is within a block of the home of Robert Frank, the 14-year-old schoolboy, kidnapped and slain by Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, millionaire youths.

Hartman reported to police that he had received a special delivery letter threatening kidnapping if the money was not paid. The letter concluded with: "Details will be given later." A few moments later Hartman received a telephone call. A man's voice repeated the threat and ransom demand, Hartman said. The caller also stated he would communicate with Hartman later and give directions for payment of the money.

Victim of Policemen's Guns

Louisville, June 20.—Two boys and a girl are near death as the result of wounds inflicted when four police officers fired 25 charges of buckshot through their car under the impression it was a liquor runner's auto. Reports of the shooting were made when the trio, Carrie Flutz, 13; Otis Johnson, 13, and John Evans, 12, were taken to the Olive Hill (Ky.) hospital.

MRS. CHARLES HIRST

DOINGS IN OHIO

Poultry Men Organizing

Columbus, June 20.—With organization work in the Ohio Poultry Producers' Co-operative association well under way in Williams county, the plan for co-operative marketing of Ohio's poultry and eggs is being presented to Fulton county poultry producers. Members of the association have pledged the produce of nearly 40,000 hens to co-operative channels for marketing, the majority of the membership being in Williams county, where active organization work has been done.

Gas Explosion Kills Four

Ironton, O., June 20.—Joseph Holtzatsel, his wife and two children were killed when gas exploded at their home here. They had moved into the residence yesterday and it is thought that the preceding family, in disconnecting the cook stove, had neglected to replace the cap over the end of the gas pipe. As Mr. Holtzatsel struck a match the gas ignited and the flames enveloped the little group standing in the doorway.

Eclectic Physicians Meet

Cincinnati, June 20.—Columbus was chosen for the next convention of the Ohio Eclectic Physicians' association at the final meeting, in which it was assured that the new $1,250, 600 school for the national body will be built here. Dr. C. W. Holtzmueller, Farmersville, O., was chosen as president-elect of the Ohio association, as Dr. A. E. King of Mt. Cory was installed. Holtzmueller will take office a year from now.

Shot by Bandit

Cleveland, June 20.—Harry R. Siegenthaler, clerk, was shot and probably fatally wounded when he resisted a robber. On his way home, Siegenthaler was met by a bandit and forced into an alley where he was relieved of $30. As the bandit pushed the money into his pocket, Siegenthaler struck with his fist and the robber fired.

Heat Wave in West

Chicago, June 20.—A cold, backward spring and summer in the central west ended abruptly when a heat wave carried by southwest winds swirled into the north and gave this section its first sweltering summer day. The mercury has stood above 100 degrees in Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma and southwestern Kansas.

BRITISH BREAK WITH MEXICO

Agent Cummins Recalled by London Government.

PROPOSED MISSION CANCELED

Recall of British Agent Had Been Demanded by the Oregon Government on the Ground that He Had Made False Statements to London Regarding Conditions in Mexico. Agent Locked in Legation.

London, June 20.—H. Cunard Cummins, British agent at Mexico City, has been recalled.

At the same time the British government decided to abandon a proposed recognition mission which was to have been headed by Sir Thomas Hohlner.

What the next diplomatic step may be is being debated with interest in government and semi-official circles. There is some suggestion that an apology may be demanded; others contend the situation will be permitted to simmer. Great Britain never has recognized the Oregon government and the Hohlner mission was to have considered such a step.

Premier Macdonald referred to the Mexican attitude towards Cummins as "a grave breach of international courtesy."

Cummins barricaded himself in the legation a few days ago after the Mexican government demanded his expulsion.

The Mexican foreign office announced that the British charge, H. Cunard Cummins, would leave for the United States border. The American embassy is receiving the British archives at Mexico City. Mexican police were instructed to permit Cummins to leave the legation.

An order to expel Cummins was given by President Obregon of Mexico after repeated efforts had been made by Mexico to persuade Britain to withdraw him as "persona non grata." Since June 10, Cummins had been locked in the legation. The Mexican government charges that Cummins, who was in charge of the archives at the legation, had no diplomatic position, but was responsible for Britain's failure to recognize Mexico, due to the fact that he made "false and vilifying statements" to the British government regarding conditions in Mexico.

TOWN PATROLLED BY STATE POLICE

Striking Miners and Guards Engaged in Gun Battle.

Morgantown, W. Va., June 20.—State police are patrolling Brady, a little mining town in the mountains near here, following a revolver battle between striking miners and company guards of the Brady-Warner Coal company's mine. One man was injured in the firing. The Union hall was destroyed by fire and many of the miners' homes were riddled with bullets. Four blasts of dynamite rocked the town and between 500 and 600 shots were exchanged between the strikers and the guards.

John L. Lewis, international head of the miners' union, announced suspension of the autonomy of District 17, in West Virginia. Lewis served notice that the union will not submit to any reduction in wages. Strikes are now in effect in the district where coal companies refused to sign new wage contracts based on the Jacksonville agreement.

Sick Prisoner Pardoned

Columbus, June 20.—Governor Donahay granted an unconditional pardon to Clyde Riggs, 19, Scioto county, serving one to three years in the Ohio penitentiary for carrying concealed weapons. PROBING CROSSING CRASH Authorities Would Place Blame For the Death of Six Persons.

Toledo, June 20.—Authorities are investigating the crossing tragedy at Genoa, O., where six people lost their lives when the automobile in which they were riding was hit by a Lake Shore electric car. The interurban car is alleged to have been traveling at terrific speed and was not stopped until it had gone three-quarters of a mile.

The dead are: Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Petersen, Mrs. Mary Henriksen, a sister of Petersen; Mrs. Henriksen's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Emil Henriksen, and the two children of Mrs. Emil Henriksen. All are from Sandusky, O. Petersen and the party were on their way to Curtice, O., to visit relatives.

Petersen, a wealthy fruit grower, was driving on the Woodville road, which parallels the Lake Shore electric tracks in Ottawa county. Witnesses say he tried to cross the tracks, apparently failing to see the approaching car, which was only 25 feet behind him. The occupants of the auto were instantly killed. The bodies of the victims were thrown from 50 to 100 feet. The auto was torn to splinters, the debris being carried nearly 1,000 feet.

MONEY MISSING

Court Names Receiver For Columbus Stock Broker.

Columbus, June 20.—A receiver was appointed for William W. Vind Wynn, stock broker, upon application of Harry W. Heinz and Charles Tilkington, former employees of Vind Wynn, alleging misappropriation of funds entrusted to his use. Upon investigation by Edward P. Hogan, receiver, it was reported that in excess of $30,000 was missing from the holdings of Vind Wynn, who, the receiver says, left Columbus June 3 without giving indication of his destination. The report to Mr. Hogan stated that $16,000 had been misappropriated from funds borrowed from employees of Vind Wynn. In addition $10,000 entrusted to him by a Cleveland woman for investment, and $4,000 obtained from sales of Rainbow Tire and Rubber company mortgage notes, also were missing, it is charged.

Mrs. Shinn produced bank books which show the money belongs to a subsidiary of the klan, known as the Betsy Ross society.

Many Poisonous Plants

Cattle and other live stock are often made ill by eating poisonous plants which grow wild in their pastures. The magnificent cow parsley, which grows six feet high or more, with its hairy leaves, does cattle no harm, but the hemlock, which looks very like cow parsley, but has smooth leaves and hairless stem, is very poisonous. From this plant the poison was distilled with which the Greek philosopher, Socrates, was put to death.

Reason for Thunder

The thunder that accompanies lightning seems to be satisfactorily explained by the fact that the electric discharge in forcing its way through the atmosphere heats the air and the vapor lying in its path to a very high temperature, causing a very violent expansion along the length of the flash. The result is a very steep compression wave, or, what is the same thing, a noise.

Reason for Spectacles.

Weak Eyes—"I want a pair of strong spectacles. I've just had a very painful experience that I don't want to repeat." Oculist. "Did you take a stranger for an acquaintance?" Weak Eyes—"Worse than that. I took a bumble bee for a berry.—Notre Dame Juggler.

HERRICK
REFRIGERATORS

HERRICK
DRY AIR SYSTEM
REFRIGERATOR

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims.
And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective Insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

DESCRIBES WONDERS
OF ANCIENT PEKING

Writer Finds Glories of Old Days Have Departed.

To one who had long heard through the dim distance the engaging echoes of Peking, a real visit to the place was like an entrance to fairyland, says a writer in the North China Herald. Here was the writer actually for the first time, within the precincts of this great city, this master creation of Ming and Manchu.

Here was the forbidden city open now to the uncouth foreigner. In the outer quarters weeds grow wild, steel rails lie flung about and heaps of brick deface the tinted wall. Instead of grand chamberlains moving by or the Buddha I find a knight of the aims bowl sitting under the Bo tree running carefully over the seams of his jacket looking for dropped stitches. Still this is the forbidden city and what can equal it?

Through the side entrance back of the Noonday gate, over the marble bridge I go, all alone. Only the shadows of the past accompany me:
airy elephants accoutred for Kang-hsi
to ride, silent banner men and lantern bearers, shadowy chiefs and kings from afar. The lions before the Tal-ho Tien seemed to me to be shaking with laughter. "It all a joke," they said, "all a joke." Perhaps it is. Only the echo of my footsteps sound as I climb the marble steps to the Tal-ho Tien. Here the guard was asleep, his head hanging loosely over the rear post of his chair. All is gone, I thought; the glory of the days of Yunglu vanished into the past and the guard himself as good as dead. But what a magnificent hall, none the less.
The mind that conceived it; the soul that gave it expression; the hands that fashioned it; when shall we see the like again? To think that long grass and weeds should be allowed to grow in such a place. One can imagine the howlings at night of the ghosts of all palace sweepers as they behold its dishevelment.

The museum is a delight to the eye and a wonder to the inner man. Chinese through and through, patterned from nowhere unless it be an odd line caught here and there from Mongolia, Tibet or distant India. Lovers of art could spend years here. I remember one picture specially of Buddha's heaven. Up the heights it went with every expression of spiritual refinement and color, beautiful beyond words. Who would not look straight through for such a matchless paradise?

We lunched in the stone boat by the lake, which boat is a fair example of China's colossal "squeezes." Nevertheless in spite of it how wonderful is the summer place. From its gay top we saw all the world as queens and emperors used to see it go by:
donkeys, boys, camels, motorcars, wheelbarrows, up-to-date young Chi-nemen fresh from Columbia, and ancient priests.

It had long been a matter of interest to the writer to know the nature of the pool that feeds the palace as well as the upper and lower sea. By a ticket at the gate and a walk through a shady avenue we came to its fountain head. It drops neither from the milky way nor from the star clusters above the Kwun-lin mountains of Tibet, but simply wells forth in unbounded measure from the earth.

Mercury Vein in Japan
A rich vein of mercury ore, believed to extend for more than seven miles on the surface and to vary in width from two to six feet, has been discovered near the village of Kita Uonome in the upper Goto Archipelago of Japan, the Department of Commerce
at Washington has been informed.

Assays show the ore to be very rich, containing 18 per cent of mercury, and preliminary excavations indicate that the vein increases in thickness the deeper it is followed. It should make Japan independent of the rest of the world for its supply of mercury.—Scientific American.

For Identification
"Seen anything of my wife around your place?" asked Lop Lazzenberry of Slippery Slap, who was in the county seat on a shopping expedition.

"D'know," replied the citizen addressed. "What sorter looking lady is she?"

"Well, I'll p'tu!—tell you: She's got tollable long hair and right cold feet."

The Deadly Dilemma
Browne (in the middle of a tall shooting story)—Hardly had I taken aim at the lion on my right when I heard a rustle in the jungle grass, and perceiving an enormous tiger approaching on my left, I now found myself on the horns of a dilemma."

Interested Boy—Oh, and which did you shoot first, the lion, the tiger, or the dilemma?

True Sympathy
Lawyer—What? Ten thousand a year to your wife if she marries again and only five thousand if she doesn't? That is unusual?

Client—Yes, but, you see, I think of my successor. He deserves extra!—

Twins Rare Among Indians.
It is a rare thing for twins to be

"IDLE CLUB WOMEN"

One of the commonest expressions we hear these times is "idle club women." Next to an eastbound hobo we don't know of nothing that's as busy as a club woman. There might possibly be an idle woman butt into a club here and there, just the same as we find nonproducers and deadbeats in all men's organizations. But the regular clubwoman is a busy person. She's got to cover a lot of territory in a day, and keep her hair from coming down, and her nose powdered, and her heels darned up, and look presentable and intellectual at all times. A plain housewife gets a breathin' spell now and then and don't have to keep dolled up and hooked together, and her phone don't ring all the time. She kin go about her dustin' and stirrin' and scrapin' without bein' absorbed in some great national issue, or important committee work. She puts in the greater part of the afternoon straightenin' in the porch and preparin' a heavy meal for a big late husband, while the "idle club woman" is tearin' all over town puttin' ever' drop of energy into gigantic movement for the benefit of the whole town, or state, or nation, and not infrequently the whole world. The "idle club woman" may have a few children, but she's not at home naggin' 'em all day. A "lazy club woman" is a woman who has kept her mental faculties alert and on the job the married, who has made bread while her mind wuz absorbed in higher things, who has washed dishes and fried liver and threshed out great momentous questions all at the same time. Suppose a business or professional man jest refused to get interested in anything but his private business, instead of lendin' some of his pep and influence to important civic and political affairs? Women, are peculiarly fitted to put things over and we're fer lettin' 'em do all of it they kin. "Why hain't that woman at home?" we hear so much. It's nobuddy's business but her own. Why hain't lots of men in their offices, or at work? Club women belong to the times. They're part of the new order of things, and we expect their homes look as neat as lots of dressin' jacket homes. And we don't believe in pityin' their husbands. We never hear of a prominent club woman's husband applyin' for a divorce, but we do hear of lots of poor hood-winked wives of club men. We'd never hear of some men if their wives didn't git out and wake the town up and start things goin'. Anyway we never hear anything about th' husbands of "idle club women" anyhow, so they must like it. We admire th' "idle club woman" when her hair is done up nifty, and she's belted up an militant.—Abe Martin.

YOUNG GIRLS

Walking From Lancaster to Chillicothe
Taken into Court.

Harold Vancuren, 19, and married, and Snow Seesholtz, 18, were before Juvenile Judge Van A. Snider today charged with contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls, aged 15 and 17 years.

Vancuren plead guilty and Seesholtz plead not guilty.

Their hearings were set for Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and their bonds were fixed at $1000. In default they were committed to the county jail.

On Saturday night the girls were in company of the defendants and later they started to walk to Circleville but were picked up by two men and hauled to Circleville. From there they started to walk to Chillicothe and were picked up by another automobile where they were unable to give a satisfactory explanation of their presence to the police who took them to the detention home.

Probation Officer William Belhorn was notified by the Chillicothe officers and Sunday morning Officer Belhorn, accompanied by his wife, motored to Chillicothe after the girls and brought them to Lancaster where they are under the eyes of the juvenile court.—Lancaster Daily Eagle.

BRILLIANT
PAGEANT

Staged by the Business and Professional Women's Club

Thursday Evening at Memorial Hall—
Over Seventy Business Houses Represented on the Stage Six Prizes Were Awarded.

The Business and Professional Women's club entertainment given at the Memorial hall Thursday evening was a success socially and financially.

Over seventy firms were represented in the pageant, which was very interesting and entertaining. The advertising alone paid for the trouble and expense each firm went to in getting up their representation.

This was the first attempt of this youthful organization to give a public entertainment and it showed that when women once get any thing started it's got to go thru. Even the sticky, sweltering weather and no electric light for nearly an hour, did not dampen their enthusiasm as the show went right on as tho nothing had happened.

This club arrived six months ago and it's a live one. The receipts of Thursday evening will place a nice little nest egg in their treasury. The club is now affiliated with the National Federation of Women's clubs.

Before the parade of the standard-bearers representing the business houses the president of the club, Mrs. W. J. Graham, made the announcement to the audience of the rules to be followed by the judges in awarding prizes, which were in two classes. The first, most unique pertaining to the business represented and the second, the best representation and most artistic. The judges were Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Given, Mrs. Lennox and Mrs. Morris, members of the Business and Professional Women's club of Columbus. Mrs. Morris is the club's president.

The prize winners in the first section were in succession: The M. & M. Barber shop, The Grant & Son Coal company and The Hudnell grocery. In the second section; first, The Public Library, The Pickaway Water company and The Dixie Milling company.

Following the appearance of each representative Miss Anna Shea read a short little piece of poetry descriptive of the firms business. These poems were original and was the work of Miss May Lowe, who as a librettist did clever work.

The standbearer of each representative, was little Bettie Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Morris.

After all the firms had placed their representatives before the audience, the procession started out marching around the immense audience. The applause was so deafening that the announcement of the prize winners given by Mrs. Harp Van Riper, chairman of the pageant could not be heard and she had to give it up until order was restored.

Dancing followed the parade, the music being furnished by the Kibler orchestra. The chairmen of the different sections were; Pageant, Mrs. Mrs. Harp Van Riper; cakes, Miss Minnie Palm; refreshments, Miss Lillian Giffen; pop, Miss Mary Howard; fish pond, Miss Marguerite Clark; confectionery, Miss Charlotte McEwing; dancing, Mrs. H. G. Stevenson and Mrs. Roy Davis. Each of the chairmen were assisted wonderfully by assistants, who worked cheerfully thru all the sweltering heat of the interior.

The ladies of the club wish to thank Earl Kibler, Frank Lynch and the Circleville Ice company publicly for the donation of the Kibler orchestra music; the pop and soft drinks of Mr. Lynch and the ice furnished gratis by the Circleville Ice company.

The exhibition of the Circleville Ice company deserves special mention. The company had two large cakes of ice on view in which was frozen a basket of flowers and in the other a twig loaded down with luscious red cherries. Thru the frosty scenery they made a picture.

Misses Mary Pickens, Mary May Haswell and Eleanor Snyder sang solos. They were accompanied by Miss Louise Renick, as pianist.

The following were represented in the pageant:

Logan Gas Co., Anna Louise Kellstadt.
G. E. Thoruton, Helen Mack.
Hudnell grocery, Mrs. Fred Newhouse.

Republicans to Meet.

Columbus, June 20.—Indications point to a speedy consummation of business when the Republican party gathers at Memorial hall next Tuesday to frame a state platform. District caucuses will be held before the convention is called to order by Temporary Chairman Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati. The resolutions committee is expected to have the platform ready to be reported out and acted upon by Wednesday morning. The platform is to be a conservative document, based upon the national platform adopted last week at Cleveland.

"Caduceus"

This name is given in classical mythology to the wand or staff of Mercury. It consists of a winged rod with serpents twined about it. The poets declared that by means of the caduceus Mercury could give sleep to whomsoever he chose; hence Milton, in "Paradise Lost," speaks of "the pastoral reed of Hermes, or the opiate rod."—Kansas City Star.

AMUSEMENTS

Laughs alternating with thrills and excitement enacted by the gifted Leah Baird and a cast of clever screen artists, artists who are also stars was the surprisingly good offering at the Met theater in "The Destroying Angel." One may go some time without discovering better romance, comedy and wholesome entertainment than is shown here in six fast reels. It is quite a departure from anything Leah Baird has previously done and places her on the plane with the comedy favorites of the screen.

Here is a thrilling comedy romance developed with many delicious surprises from the popular book by Louis Joseph Vance, and can be said to please the most exacting audience. Starting with the pretty feminine thrill of a secret marriage, the story tells of a romantic girl who mysteriously disappears from her circle in society and is boosted to stardom on the stage by a shrewd theatrical manager under the enticing name of "The Destroying Angel." Her identity is effectually concealed even from the college boy who went thru the wild ceremony with her and who later is fascinated with the famous actress. Miss Baird in her role as the dancer has many lovers at her feet and leads them a merry chase. She becomes the victim of desperate plots, but the right man—a fighter and love-maker to win the heart of any girl—follows her thru every peril.

It would not be fair to tell all the story. One must see "The Destroying Angel" to enjoy it.

Tobacco as Catnip

Fred Humiston, proprietor of a hotel at Popham Beach, Me., owns a cat which he says loves tobacco, just as most cats love catnip. His cat will get at his can of smoking tobacco at every opportunity and go through the same antics that the usual house cat does when it gets a feed of catnip.

Epoch and Era

Epoch and era are usually used synonymously. In history either one denotes a fixed point of time, commonly selected on account of some remarkable event by which it has been distinguished, and which is made the beginning or determining point of a particular year, from which all other years, whether preceding or ensuing, are computed. Some writers distinguish between the terms epoch and era. According to them, both mark important events, but an era is an epoch which is chronologically dated from; an epoch is not marked in this way. The birth of Christ was both an epoch and an era, according to this view.

FICKARDT'S ROUP AND CHOLERA DROPS

On May 7, 1924, I called on Elmer Doner, Ashville, R. F. D. No. 1, and he told me the following:—

I bought four hundred (400) chicks of a hatchery and while there I bought some tablets to prevent disease or cure them if they were sick. Very soon the chicks began to die, I tried the tablets that I had obtained at the hatchery. I then bought other tablets liquids and powders, all nationally advertised remedies, but none of them did any good and my chicks kept on dying until I had lost 250.

A friend of mine told me of Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops, at that time I had ten sick chicks in a pen separated from the well stock and I really considered them as good as dead.

I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops with all my chicks, both well and sick. Two of the sick ones died, the other eight recovered and I have not lost any others since I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops over a month ago.

I would have probably thought that the disease had run its course if it had not been for the fact that these that were sick recovered, but seeing the sick ones get well has convinced me that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops cured them.

Care of Aluminum.

One of the Swiss electric tramway companies has built cars of aluminum, says the New York Herald. One reason for using this metal is that the weight of the car is much lessened and another point is that the painting of the car lasts much longer. It was found that cars built with iron plates soon showed rusting and the paint suffered much from this. In Zurich, where the method is being tried, this is an important point, as the cars are painted in a light color. In the first place the metal was used for the roofs of the cars, and the result was so satisfactory by reason of the absence of rust that it was decided to go further and to employ it for the body covering of the car and part of the flooring. A metal known as duraluminum is used and it has a small amount of copper used so as to make it harder.

Magyars Given Credit

In the popular mind so little credit is said to have been given to the Magyar race for its significant activities in world development, but it is a fact that for more than a century, during which time the activities of the Turks were at their height, the Magyars stood as the bucklers of Christendom against them. The particular Magyars were those who inhabited what was known as Hungaria.

Black Dan Went Back Into the Mountains

By JUSTIN WENTWOOD
(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

BLACK DAN had drifted into Middlesfield from the hill country. He was a smith's helper, and later he became a smith. He was called Black Dan after because of his glowering, sullen look, but at first only on account of the color of his hair. Quiet he was then, but happy, with a strange interior happiness, and he used to sing
at his work.
He fell in love with pretty Milly

Fawcett, a farmer's daughter. The Fawcetts had gipsy blood in them, a taint through the grandmother. No one ever thought it would break out in Milly. But it did, two years after their marriage. And so Dan came home one day to find a note telling him that his wife had left him with a married man, a rich storekeeper of the district.
From that day men began to call Dan black for a different reason. They pitied him, but there were some who pitied Milly.
"He shouldn't have come into her life," they said. "They weren't suited."
Dan had settled in the cottage Milly had inherited from her father. His sourness had gradually settled on her spirits. She had been unhappy for a long time before she ran away.
Months passed into a year. One night—it was storming hard—Dan heard a gentle, timid tapping on the door. He opened it. Milly stood there, a bundle in her arms.

"I've come back, Dan," she said.
"For the sake of the child you'll help us. That's all I ask. I know you were always kind. And I haven't any one in the world to turn to."
Dan opened the door and admitted Milly without a word. She sat down by the fireside, crooning over the little girl, Dan opposite her, and for hours
they never spoke a word.
Now and again Milly, glancing up fearfully into Dan's face, saw him wrestling with his problem. She had been afraid he would commit some violence upon her; but, once admitted, she felt sure that Dan would not turn them out to starve.
It was early in the morning when

Dan spoke. "It's you or the child, Milly," he said.
"What do you mean?" she stammered.
"If I take another man's child into my home, to bring her up to be a good woman, you must go. I won't have the two of you. And if you stay, she goes away."
"Dan!" Milly's voice rose into a frightened cry. "You—you don't aim to separate me from my child?"
"It's one or the other of you," answered Dan.
The hours passed. Milly pleaded.
She wept, she went down on her knees.
Dan remained inexorable. He would take either her or the child, but not both of them.
Till dawn Milly pleaded. Then, at last, realizing that Dan was unmovable, she ceased, and sat staring into the fire, hugging the child to her breast. To give up the child for the sake of a home was unthinkable. But to abandon her was equally impossible.

It seemed to her—to leave her with Dan and go away.
And Dan sat staring into the fire on the other side of the hearth until,
by the flicker of the dying flames, Milly saw a new light come into his eyes.
"Dan! Dan!" she whispered.
Dan rose, shook off her hand, and went into the kitchen. For a while he stamped about and then there was silence.
By the gray light of dawn Milly went out. "We're going, Dan," she said.
There came no answer. Dan was not in the kitchen. Then Milly saw a scrawl upon a piece of paper on the kitchen table. Fearfully she took it up and read:

"Milly, this is yore home. I never oughtn't to have come into yore life.
I don't blame you no longer. God has showed me the way while I was setting there.
"This home is yores and the child's.
But I couldn't never bare to live here with his child in the house. And so I'm going away and I won't never come back from the mountains."
Fearfully, Milly ran to the door. In the gray light of morning she saw the countryside outspread before her. But it was all emptiness. She looked up to the distant mountains.
"Dan! Dan!" she called.
But no one answered her.

Needs

Poverty wants some things, luxury many things, avarice all things.—Ben Franklin.

AN OLD-FASHIONED FELLOW.

There is a quaint old gentleman out in our neighborhood whose peculiar ways have attracted a good deal of attention. He wears whiskers, for one thing, albeit he keeps them well trimmed. He dresses neatly, tho he still wears a tiepin, despite the fact that it isn't done. One suspects that his vest conceals a pair of galluses. There is something about his hats, too that suggests a day gone by. But it isn't his apparel that particularly singles him out for notice. It's his queer ways—the odd things he does and says.

He has a habit, for instance, of speaking to people he passes, wishing them a good day and looking at them as if he had a real interest in their welfare. Neighbors have noticed that he often touches little children on the head as he walks along whether he knows them or not, and the children don't seem to mind it. He never seems to be in a hurry to board a street car, always standing to one side until the waiting groups have entered. If he gets a seat in the car, he sweeps his eye down the aisle to see if there is a woman standing and he is the first to offer her a seat. He created much amusement one day by giving his seat to a negro woman with a baby on one arm and a filled basket on the other. He likes to talk to the passengers, and while some of them seem to resent it, the most of them don't because he has quite a pleasant smile.

But it's the odd things he says that sometimes make people wonder. To a woman who was complaining about the outrageous conduct of some of the bobbed "freshies," he said, "Well, they're only young once." When a man started to argue politics with him he said, rather absent minded, "It's a great country, isn't it, in spite of it all." Once he made an answer that brought a rude stare from a neighbor who had hazarded the remark that "business was going to the dogs." He said, "I heard a thrush singing when I got up this morning." He often talks of the "good old times" of a generation ago, but he always adds with an apologetic air, "I guess, tho, the boys were no better and the girls no sweeter—than they are today." He has a peculiar habit of stopping to watch little newsboys late in the evening and he had been known to buy a proffered paper when he already had one in his hand.

An old-fashion fellow and full of queer tricks like these he is, but somehow everybody out in his neighborhood likes to see him come along. They are getting used to his old-fashioned ways.—Kansas City Star.

In Memoriam.

Editor Union-Herald:—Rufus, son of Rachel and Isaac Spangler was born November 5, 1843, and passed from this life June 12, 1924, aged 80 years, seven months and seven days.

On January 21, 1865, he was united in marriage to Matilda A. Butler. To this union were born two children, Rachel Permina and William I. Spangler. Minnie, by which names she was known to all became the wife of Elmer E. Kashner and preceded her father in death December 21, 1917.

The faithful wife and companion of almost 60 years is left to mourn his departure, together with the son and daughter-in-law who remained in the home and so faithfully and lovingly helped to care for him during his illness. There are also living five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren one having preceded him. Of his immediate family there are left two brothers, John, of this place and William, of near Circleville.

He united with the Cumberland Presbyterian church of Tarlton in early manhood and always retained his membership there, attending regularly as long as health and strength permitted. He was also a faithful member of the I. O. O. F. lodge of Tarlton for over 55 years. Born, reared, lived and died in the same community, so that he is known to all. In his passing there has gone from us a kind and loving husband and father, a friend and neighbor, who always ready to sympathize and lend a helping hand whenever needed, as long as he was able.

Card of Thanks

The family wishes to thank the neighbors and friends for their kindness, sympathy and helpfulness extended during illness and after the death of husband and father.

Polite Distinctions

"A gentlemen's agreement," remarked Cactus Joe, "is what broke up our little poker game. Three or four ace-keepers got together and formed a society, passing resolutions that anybody outside the sacred circle was no gentleman and therefore didn't deserve a chance to win."—Washington Star.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service)

PLAN IS TO REACH ALL ILLITERATES

The American Legion was the chief factor in broadening the scheme for adult education at the recent conference, aimed at elimination of illiteracy, held in Washington, declared Dr. Homer Seerley, president of the Iowa State Teachers' college, a delegate to the conference.

Chief among these recommendations were those for provision of more education than now provided, particularly in regard to matters of citizenship, which will be brought about by an investigation as to competency of every native-born citizen as fully as the foreign-born is examined, Doctor Seerley said.

Another feature of the conference was the report of "Group C," that section of the work in which the American Legion was most vitally interested.

Garland W. Powell, national director of the Americanism commission of the Legion, clearly enunciated the aims of the conference at its inception when he said, as chairman of that group:

"We believe that the chief aim of this conference is to provide that every man and woman in the United States who cannot already do so be taught to read, write and speak the English language. We further believe that the most elements of citizenship should be a part of such instruction."

On this was the principal work of the conference founded. An attempt had been made by elements of the conference to make combating of illiteracy apply only to native-born Americans, but the Legion and other agencies, co-operating in Group C, declared against this, aiming to bring those of foreign birth into the scope of the campaign.

The recommendation of the group in which the Legion participated was that the United States commissioner of education be requested to appoint a committee of at least nine persons, with professional experience in this field, three of whom are to be members of Group C of the illiteracy conference, for the purpose of reviewing the materials submitted by Group C of this conference and forwarding the results of their work to those engaged in illiteracy work in the United States. It was further recommended that the commissioner secure representatives of the entire country on this committee.

The report of the subcommittee of this group on textbooks and materials urged use of certain principles in selection of textbooks for instruction. These principles include texts that conform to the ability of adult students; that do not violate psychological principles of suggestion; that conform to accepted methods of teaching; such text should contain fundamental items of information on health, food, hygiene and sanitation; with suggested texts for specific groups of native-born illiterates, foreign-born illiterates and intermediate and advanced texts for all groups.

Consolidation of rural schools is growing in favor, according to the reports to the conference. One-room schools are disappearing, data showing that 1,828 consolidations were effected in the school years of 1921-1922, with 14 states not reporting. At least four of these states are known to be making considerable progress in the work of eliminating single small schools. In some cases these are being improved, not by removal to a distant central location, but by natural growth in two and three-room schools. There were 1,890 consolidated schools in the United States in 1920. There are now approximately 15,000 of such schools, and a decrease of 8,500 one-room schools is noted in the three-year period.

All this has had a salutary effect on the salaries of school teachers, resulting, in turn, in higher mentality for the teaching profession. Beginning of illiteracy is traceable, in many instances, to rural schools where incompetent teachers and insufficient supervision have prevailed.

The conference on illiteracy, called by the Legion, was the first national attempt to settle on some means for elimination of inability to read and write the English language, much of which is to be found among illiterate immigrants, and native-born negroes and whites in certain sections of the country. The Legion's part in calling the conference was determined by the national program of education, endorsed by every succeeding national convention since the first meeting in Minneapolis.

Play Kiddie-Kar Polo

The newest sport in American Legion circles is kiddie-kar polo. Just now in cities of the Northwest staid Legionnaires are to be seen aside of their "steeds" dashing madly about the clubrooms chasing an elusive pole ball in an earnest endeavor to "knock its block off." An "interpol" "league" has been formed and the sport is proving a most popular indoor diversion. In one post, which is a member an inch or two short of seven feet, the game is said to be especially interesting and speedy.
